

Guidelines for Fall Registration – students should pay close attention to the degree audit for your program and term of entry (these are located on the clinical psych webpages http://www.auconnection.net/chicago/ispp/index_forms.asp). In addition to following the audit, there are a few additional considerations when planning your schedule, which are also included on the clinical psych webpages (<http://www.auconnection.net/chicago/ispp/index.asp>).

Students who will be on practicum in fall

- Remember that your practicum seminar time cannot be changed. You should build your fall schedule (and plan your spring and summer schedules) around your practicum seminar assignment. All students who submitted seminar rankings should have been notified of their seminar assignments by this time. If you did not receive notice, please contact Toni Johnson (tcjohnson@argosy.edu)

PsyD students who will be on Diagnostic Practicum

- Take note that Integrative Assessment (a required course to be taken during Dx Practicum) is only offered during the fall term. If you will be on Dx Practicum this year, you must take this course in fall 2010.
- PsyD students who started fall 2009 or later should plan to take Research Methods and Statistics during the second year in order to complete the pre-requisites for PP8499 CRP Proposal Development, which is typically taken during fall of the third year (and is ONLY offered in the fall). If you intend to take longer to complete the PsyD, you do not need to take these courses during your second year in the program.

MACL Students planning to apply to the PsyD program

- Note that, if you are planning to start the PsyD program in fall 2012 and finish in 3 years, you will need to take Research Methods and Statistics during your second year in the MACL program. This is in order to complete the pre-requisites for PP8499 CRP Proposal Development, which will be taken by you during fall 2012. If you intend to take longer to complete the PsyD, you do not need to take these courses during your MA program.
- Also, MA students will need to complete the Assessment series (PP7370, PP7371, and PP7372) during the second year of the MA program in order to be eligible for Dx practicum in fall 2012. Note that MA students cannot register for PP7372 until the summer term. MA students may be allowed in PP7372 in the spring term if there are open seats after the PsyD students have registered.

Planning for PsyD comps

- For PsyD students on the 4 year track, you will need to complete all comps pre-requisites by the end of the second year to be comps eligible.
- PsyD students on the 5 year track will need to complete all comps prerequisites by the end of the 3rd year to be comps eligible. It is possible, with careful planning and successful registration, to complete all pre-reqs and take comps after the second year, but we do not recommend students pursue this route.
