

On Thursday, May 25, 2011, Dr. Florine Robinson was a presenter at Red White and View: a Patriotic Celebration of the Fine Arts at Poe Classical School in Chicago, Illinois.

One of our alums, Dr. Joanne Brown-Hicks, an art teacher at Poe spear headed the program as a part of the Auxiliary Team of Poe Classical School. Dr. Brown-Hicks is the chair of the Auxiliary Team, and has presented a program of this nature for her school community for the past three years. The principal, Mrs. Kelly Moore-Shelton was very proud of the program and the participation of Argosy University faculty, alumni and current students. She is also very proud of the fact that Poe School (k-6th grades) has a rating of number one when it comes to the ISAT scores of her children.

Dr. Joanne Browne Hicks is a graduate of Argosy University's College of Education. Dr. Florine Robinson, who presented her art work in oils, and came prepared to speak on the contributions of Dr. Margret Taylor- Burroughs, is an Organizational Leadership faculty member in the College of Business. Assisting Dr. Robinson in transporting her art work there was Dr. Diane Didonna, another Argosy graduate from the College of Education, who currently serves as a dean at Brown Mackie College. Dr. Robinson served as the dissertation chairperson for both Brown-Hicks and Didonna. There were also two current Argosy students present. One was Kiara Price, a teacher at Poe, who is currently pursuing a doctorate in Education, and the other one was Elana Godbolt, a parent of a student at Poe, who is currently pursuing a doctorate in Organizational Leadership. The program included all aspects of the arts, and ended with the school choir singing "We are the world." A total of 250 people were in attendance, and Argosy University-Chicago was well represented at this event, and helped to make it a success.
